

BREWERY FUN FACTS

The name '6 Bears & A Goat' reflects the military backgrounds of the seven owners. Six of the owners are retired from the Coast Guard, which has a bear mascot. The seventh owner graduated from the Naval Academy in Annapolis, whose mascot is a goat.

Prior to the opening of Adventure Brewing in 2014, Stafford County was home to only one other brewery, Marlborough Brewery, which operated from 1766 to 1767.

The name Barley Naked came to the owner from a dream in 2008, and ten years later that dream became a reality along with a logo that has a hidden image in it.

Highmark Brewery is for those who are "in pursuit of happiness".

Log Home Brewing Company is nestled in an iconic log home in the heart of Lake Anna.

The name 'Red Dragon' derives from the owner's Irish, Scottish, and English heritage. The red dragon appears on the national flag of Wales and has symbolized the Celtic nation for more than a millennium.

The Strangeways Fredericksburg brewery is located in the former office/warehouse of the Burton family retail clothing business, where owner Neil Burton worked prior to entering the brewing industry.

Water's End Brewery resides in the historic Fredericksburg Square building that was built in 1854.
